

This month... we look at the work of Eric Smith, perhaps the most recognised UK breeder of hosta cultivars, who crossed H. sieboldiana 'Elegans' with H. 'Tardiflora' and developed the 'Tardiana' group of hostas. This group of glaucous-blue leaf cultivars are much better suited to the average garden as they range from dwarf to medium in size. This issue of our newsletter lists the Tardiana group and briefly introduces some of the cultivars that have been created since focusing on H. 'Halcyon' and H. 'June'.

The Tardiana group

According to Georg Schmid, Eric Smith has been attributed with 25 separate cultivars and he also breed a further 8 cultivars in association with other breeders. At the time of writing, The Genus Hosta, Georg listed a further 11 cultivars within the Tardiana group that had been introduced by other growers. The Tardiana group is listed in the side column and each cultivar links to further information about that plant together with links to Hosta Library images of mature varieties.

H. 'Halcyon'

Perhaps the most recognisable cultivar in the Tardiana group is H. 'Halcyon', with its distinctive veins, leaf shape and bloom. H. 'Halcyon' has produced some highly desirable sports and these have in turn produced further sports...
